Eastertide, which lasts from Easter Day to Pentecost, is the season we celebrate the new life that is ours because of the death, resurrection, and ascension to heaven of Jesus for our sake. And so, as we consider our Star Words in this season, we spend time in imagination, envisioning the newness, fullness, and life that our words call us to...

Look back over the quotes, verses, memories, hopes, etc. that you wrote during Season of Epiphany, and prayerfully revisit your lament, confession, or commitment from Lent. Spend time throughout this season praying over those things, and asking God to give you imagination of what newness, wholeness and life God has in store for you in relation to your word.

Imagine... If you were living fully into God's leading and will related to your star word...what would that look like?

In your relationship with God?

In your relationship with others (family, friends, co-workers, children, etc.)?

In your understanding and acceptance of who you are?

In your care for the world?

In the practicality of your life- places, things, activities, time, etc.?

How would your life be different? How would your soul and spirit be changed?

What needs to change for that to become a reality- in your heart, in your attitude, in your priorities, in your knowledge, in your activities, etc.?
